BIG FIRE LOSS IN NEWPORT

Wheeler Livery Stable Total Loss. Fifteen Horses and Two Autos Burn. Origin of Fire Unknown.

Newport suffered a severe fire early this morning, when the building owned by Harry Stewart and occupied by Wheeler's livery stable, was completely destroyed by fire and the roof and all of the Drew block occupied by Hurst's restaurant, was destroyed. Fifteen horses and two automobiles, besides all the equipment of sleighs, wagons, harnesses, etc., were a total loss with insurance of only $3,000 on the equipment. The horses were uninsured.

The alarm was first given by a locomotive whose occupants first discovered the blaze bursting through the roof of the Wheeler stable. Seven streams of water soon played upon the blaze and kept it under control.

The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is thought to have started in the upper part of the barn. A portion of the livery stable burned three years ago.

HOW TO PREVENT THE SPREAD OF INFANTILE PARALYSIS.

TITLE PARALYSIS.—Dr. C. Bol-duan, director of public education of the New York city health department, and Dr. Simon Flexner, director of the Rockefeller Institute, explained how to detect symptoms of infantile paralysis and how to ward off the disease and prevent its spread.

The first symptoms are fever, bowel disturbances, headache and irritability.

After a few hours pains develop, usually in the lower part of the legs and in the feet.

Sometimes there are also pains in the region of the spine, in the arms and neck—stiff neck.

Within twelve hours the patient is unable to move his arms or legs and sometimes cannot talk.

Vomiting, delirium, twitches and convulsions accompany the progress of the disease.

A temperature of from 100 to 106 degrees lasts two or three days.

Sometimes, but rarely, the patient has chills, sore throat and skin eruptions.

Health is no protection. Often children go to bed apparently well and awake in the night with the first symptoms and are partly paralyzed by morning.

Cleanliness is the only known preventive.

The isolation of children in the house is next in importance.

Have children wash their hands and faces often.

Avoid buying candy, ice cream and fruits which are eaten without being cooked from peddlers and storekeepers who are not careful of their wares.

Don't kiss children on their mouths.

Keep their noses clean. This applies especially to young babies.

Protect them from flies.

The germs of this disease, which are so small that they cannot be seen with microscopes and which pass through germ filters, almost always enter the bodies of their victims through the mucous membranes of the nose and throat.

Keep children away from their mates in the streets or at moving picture shows.

Report all cases at once to the board of health, so that the city's doctors can immediately investigate and remove the patients to hospitals.

Adults are not free from the disease. If your hands are dirty or if you are not careful about the preparation of your children's food, remember that you can give your little ones the disease as readily as can outsiders.

COUNTY COURT.

The case of Raymond Aiken vs. O. Metcalf of Irasburg tried last week to recover damages for personal injury, resulted in a verdict for the defendant. The next case called was F. M. Hunt vs. Village of Orleans, an action in tort, is now being tried and seems to be a battle between the lawyers just at present.

Morrisville Afraid of Paralysis.

A case of infantile paralysis having appeared in Morrisville, a meeting of the local board of health of Morrisville was held, with two of the local physicians besides the health officer present, also several business men, and the question of closing the schools and other public places was thoroughly discussed. It was finally decided after consultation with the secretary of the state board of health to close the churches and local theatrum, but allow the schools to continue, all of the physicians of Morrisville to be at the village schools each morning for a period of two weeks to examine every pupil with the understanding that the parents should have the option of keeping their children at home providing they
